"I can help you find the perfect place for your wedding." "Are you sure?" "Yeah." "It will be so nice if you help out." "I'll do my best." A group of people had been following Naruto as he walked through the Gion village. In particular, a well-built man with a prominent scar, who was wearing sunglasses, was staring at him. Naruto had been walking alone until he heard Hinata's voice. She was whispering to someone, "Umm... I'm telling you that my father, the village's sensei, is a big oaf. I think he only does something that he thinks looks cool. We have no idea what he'll do to make our wedding day, just a little bit scary." Naruto had stopped in his tracks as he heard her voice, "I'm afraid." As he heard these words, the scar-faced man immediately moved in front of him. "A single girl, you're so stupid. I'll help you marry that oaf of a woman so that you can live happily ever after," the man in sunglasses said, his voice loud and deep. "Shut up!" the man wearing the mask suddenly threw a punch at Naruto, who dodged it. The man threw another punch, Naruto grabbed his hand and twisted it. The man's eyes lit up in rage as he felt his shoulder popping. Naruto quickly released the man's hand, leaving him in a daze. He walked in front of the man, "I'm glad you' 82157476af
